A Friendly Interest in the Smallest Depositors

We have watched many of our smallest depositors grow to be among our largest.

Once the fascination of systematic saving finds lodgement, it is surprising how easily the embryo saver acquires the habit of regularly visiting his bank.

Then there is an automatic growth of funds deposited. The 4% interest this bank pays adds quite noticeably—and gratifyingly—to one's savings.

Don't postpone your own financial independence just because you only have a small amount to deposit. A dollar or two will start you here.

You'll find this bank always alert to give you help and counsel, and serve you conscientiously.

Here is strength the outgrowth of over eighty years of conservative banking

FELLOWSHIP OF CHRIST IS PRIVILEGE FOR ALL

Rev. J. Byers Brice Preaches at Union Services.

WHICH ARE HELD AFTER BAKER'S BAND CONCERT

Minister's Subject Is Based on Text. Luke 24-32. Sunday Evening—Sermon in Part.

Rev. J. Byers Brice, pastor of the First United Brethren church, gave an inspiring sermon Sunday evening on the subject, "Fellowship of Christ is Privilege for All," which was heard by a large congregation assembled on the church lawn. Following the sermon a short program was given by Baker's band at 8:30 o'clock. Music during the service was furnished by a double quartet from Epworth M. E. church.

Dr. O. F. Gongaware, pastor of the First United Brethren church, gave a scripture reading and the prayer was made by Rev. E. L. Shuey, of the First Reformed church. Rev. Walter Laddie, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, pronounced the benediction. On account of the Chautauqua no services began at 9 o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Brice based his sermon on the twenty-fourth chapter of Luke, thirty-second verse. "Was not our heart burning within us while He spake to us in the way while He opened to us the scriptures?"

Sermon in Part.

"The city of Jerusalem was thronged with people, for it was the Passover season and from all parts of the land the Jews had gathered for the keeping of the Passover feast. There was much excitement in the city because of the report that Jesus, the Galilean, Who had been crucified on the summit of Calvary and whose body had been buried in Joseph's tomb, had risen from the dead.

"It was now the third day after the crucifixion and some women who had gone to the grave during the early hours of the morning of the third day had reported that they found an empty tomb. As the hours of the day passed by it was reported by some that they had seen the risen Christ and had talked with Him. There were a few who believed the report but there were many who doubted its truthfulness and through the hours of the day groups of men in all parts of the city were discussing the report for the empty tomb in the garden was a perplexing question.

"There were two men in the city that day from the village of Emmaus which was seven or eight miles distant from the city of Jerusalem. They were both disciples of Jesus. The name of one was Cleopas while the name of the other is unknown. Just who Cleopas was is only conjecture and so far as any definite knowledge of the men is concerned they are unknown. We know that they were disciples of Christ but that is all we know about them. Late in the afternoon the two leave Jerusalem and start for their home in Emmaus. As they trudge along on the homeward journey it is evident their hearts were sad. They seem to have given little credence to the report that they had heard respecting the appearance of the risen Christ. To them like many others the report seemed but 'idle talk' and it was with sad faces and heavy hearts that they talked with each other of the things which had happened. While they walked on the homeward journey Jesus joined them and walked by their side but they did not recognize Him.

Sad Countenance.

"The Book tells us that their eyes were holden." Jesus saw their sad countenance and said, "What communications are these that ye have one with another as ye walk?" They were surprised at his question and said Him "If he alone sojourned in Jerusalem and knew not the things which are coming to pass there in these days?" He replied "What things?" Then they told Him the story of the crucifixion of the disappointment of their hopes in the Redeemer of Israel and showed their doubt as to the fact of His resurrection from the tomb. When they had finished speaking he said to them "O foolish men and slow of heart to believe in all that the prophets have spoken. Behooved it not the Christ to suffer these things and to enter into glory?" As they walked along He interpreted to them the prophecies which showed them what things were testified respecting the Christ. No doubt these men marvelled at the stranger's knowledge of the Word of God. They have arrived at the village of Emmaus and Jesus was about to separate from them but they were anxious to have the fellowship of Him whose words were strangely moved their hearts. The record says "It is a law of hospitality that constrains them to urge Him that the day was far spent and he might become their guest for the night.

"He accepts their hospitality and entered their home with them. The evening meal was soon prepared and when the host had blessed it and broken it, their eyes were opened and they knew Him. The stranger with whom they had walked and with whom they had talked and whose words warmed their hearts was the risen Christ. Knowing Him He vanished from their sight. But they recognized Him as the vanished from their sight. But they did not go to rest that night but their souls within them burned as they spoke to one another. He spake to us by the way and as He opened to us the scriptures."

Privilege of All.

From the incident [illegible] we learn some lessons respecting our fellowship with Christ.

"If we have communion with Christ in the breaking of bread we cannot meet at every table and sup with Him but we can meet Him in the prayer meeting, in the class meeting, in the social hour, in the Sunday school and in the home. There were many in Christ's day who came to Him for healing, some for spiritual help. They were driven out of the synagogue. This is the first we hear of them and we do not hear of them again. But have you ever thought of the form there that intervened from the resurrection of Christ to the day of His ascension? For a short part of an afternoon and evening on fellowship with these two humble disciples as he walked and talked with them on the Emmaus road and entered into the home where the evening meal was prepared.

"Christ is no respecter of persons. He came into the world to seek and save the lost. He fellowshiped with Nicodemus and Joseph of Arimathea but he also fellowshiped with the poor and needy. He Himself was a man of poverty and acquainted with grief but he came to the poor and needy with a message of comfort and of love. He made known to them that although they might be poor in this world's goods and numbered among the poor of earth yet by fellowshiping with him they might become rich in the things of heaven and be numbered among the heirs of the heavenly kingdom.

"Second, fellowship with Him comes through the right use of the Word of God. While he opened to us the scripture did not our heart burn within us?

"You remember the scene on the desert road when Phillip and the eunuch met. In the city of Jerusalem the eunuch had come into possession of a copy of the Word of God, and it was the Word which he was reading when Phillip ran up to the chariot and said, 'Understandest thou what you readest?' At the invitation of the eunuch Phillip entered the chariot and beginning at the scripture that he was reading Phillip preached unto him Jesus and he went on his way rejoicing.

We Must Desire It.

"We must desire the fellowship of Christ if it is to continue. Unbidden Jesus joined the two disciples on the Emmaus road that day and entered into conversation and fellowship with them. The first step that of beginning the fellowship was taken by Jesus but the second step that of the continuation was taken by the disciples. Jesus drew near and walked and talked with them but when they had reached the village and Jesus was about to pass on they constrained him to enter the home and abide with them. Just so with everyone who would enjoy the fellowship of Christ. 'Behold I stand at the door and knock, if any man hear my voice and open the door I will come into him and sup with him and he with Me.' Jesus knocks for admission but he does not force the door of the heart of man. Man of his own free will must open the door and then Jesus enters.

"Am I speaking to some one this Sabbath evening at the door of whose heart Jesus is knocking? If so why not invite Him to enter and begin to fellowship with Him this evening? Friends if we fellowship with Him during the day of life He will fellowship with us as we pass through that night that we call death. 'Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil, for thou art with me.'"

INTERALLIED COUNCIL PLANS

Supreme Council Will Meet August 8.

SESSIONS TO COVER TWO OR THREE WEEKS

Meeting Will Be Held in Paris Instead of Bologna

Russian Relief, Upper Silesian Issue and Greco-Turk War Will Get Attention of Allied Statesmen, Advices Say.

Paris, August 1.—The interallied supreme council will meet, August 8, and probably will be in session two or three weeks, according to the newspaper, Bon Soir, today. The meeting will be in Paris instead of Boulogne. Opinion was expressed by Bon Soir that the allied statesmen would discuss Russian relief along with the Upper-Silesian issue and the Greco-Turk war. It was intimated, unofficially at the foreign office, however, that France will decline to discuss Russia, believing that Russian relief is a question for individual action.

Moderate opinion in France is in favor of extending help to Russia. Deputy Moutet has sent a letter to Premier Briand asking that the French government participate in an international campaign of relief "to save the starving millions of Russia." The deputy added:

"It is a humanitarian duty and is above all politics."

Government officials hold out little hope, however. They say that France has no money nor any supplies to spare.

Talks to Commons.

London, August 1.—It is highly probable that the supreme council will take up the Russian famine situation when it meets, Premier Lloyd George announced in the house of commons, this afternoon.

Questioned about reports that Poland and Roumania were massing troops on the Russian frontiers, the premier said he was not aware of any exceptional concentration.

[Poland and Roumania recently entered into an alliance. Subsequently, the Socialist press in Paris declared that both powers were planning to make war against Russia.]

A NEW SYSTEM IN OHIO HIGH SCHOOLS

Vocational Guidance Is Adopted by Director Riegel.

Columbus, Aug. 1.—Decision to take algebra out of the list of required high school studies was not taken by the state department of education until a carefully worked out system of vocational guidance had been adopted.

An old theory that algebra is indispensable for the development of mental discipline is an exploded one, according to Director of Education Riegel. It has such value, he admits, but so have other studies.

High schools still must make algebra available to pupils. But how is a pupil to know whether to study algebra or not?

In order to help them in this decision, the state department will require all freshmen to take a half-year study of occupations. Pupils will be asked also to consult parents, teachers and principals. Then, if pupils fail to take algebra the first year, but find they need it, they may take it the second year and more higher mathematics thereafter.

DEVELOPMENTS ARE PROMISED SHORTLY

Authorities Probing Murder of Columbus Auto Salesman.

Hamilton, August 1.—Startling developments are promised in a short while, by Sheriff Labauch, who is investigating the murder recently on the Dixie highway by three automobile bandits of Arthur S. Conery, Columbus automobile salesman, while riding with his wife.

Two suspects, "Cyclone" Bowen and Robert Neu, held in Lebanon jail, could not be identified by Mrs. Conery. Mrs. Conery, however, positively identified a cap in possession of authorities as the one worn by a member of the holdup gang. Officials said Mrs. Conery was pretty certain, too, that the automobile held in Franklin belonged to the bandits.

Felled by Lightning.

New York, August 1.—It takes a lot to shock 'em at the beaches these days, but where one-piece bathing suits failed, lightning succeeded. Thirty members of the New York Athletic club were recovering, today, from injuries sustained when they were felled in a heap on a bathing pavilion floor in which they were sheltered from a violent electrical storm, Sunday.

RUBBER TAKES LIVELY SPURT

Industry in Akron Picking Up Rapidly.

PRICE REDUCTIONS BRING BUSINESS

Factory Reports Normal Output of Auto Tires—Another Factory Near Peak Figure.

Akron, August 1.—That the rubber industry is taking a lively spurt is the admission of factory managers here today. All also voice optimistic views as to the future business following the reduction in prices made in both motor cars and tires.

At one factory the tire output has again reached normal, 19,000 tires being produced daily. Another one of the largest factories reports a production of 21,000 a day, which is almost the peak figure. A third factory announces production figures at 16,000.

In nearly every instance, the greater production has followed reduction in wages and smaller forces. Factory managers admit that greater efficiency prevails, now that a man holds his place so long as he makes good.

Several foundries here also report going back on full time within the past ten days.

In a statement issued today, officials of the Goodrich company express themselves well pleased with the present prospects and the manner in which business has picked up recently, especially in the tire and footwear divisions. Demands for tires, so the statement says, has made heavy inroads on supply stocks of finished casings and the factory will soon find it necessary to greatly speed up production in event the demands continue.

Relative to payment of dividend on the common stock, the officials declare this will not be possible for some time owing to the poor business for four months, coupled with the invontory which was made necessary by the recent twenty-percent. reduction in tire prices.

Labor Riots In Japan.

Tokyo, Aug. 1.—Labor disputes at Kobe are again being marked by bloody fighting. Rioting occurred Saturday, in which it is estimated that at least 50 persons were wounded, and a sanguinary clash occurred Sunday, when, disregarding the ban upon any public demonstration, 7,000 shipyard strikers paraded to a local shrine singing labor songs. The paraders were stopped at the temple gate by 500 police, who attacked with sabers and clubs.

Killed by Sentry.

Belfast, Aug. 1.—Thomas Reid, caretaker of Orange hall, near Comber, County Down, was shot dead by a sentry while motoring past the Ulster Specials camp at Newtownards. Reid did not hear the sentry's challenge, it is thought, because of the noise his motor car was making.

Bandits Escape.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 1.—State police, postal authorities and railroad officers failed to find a trace of the four bandits who robbed a mail car on the Manhattan Limited on the Pennsylvania railroad. Postoffice officials say the loss was small.

HERE AND THERE

E. Mont Reilly was inaugurated as governor of Porto Rico.

Bandits invaded a government hospital at Chicago and took all the money and cigarets possessed by two wounded veterans of the world war.

Dr. William McDougall, professor of psychology at Harvard university, has been elected president of the American Society of Psychical Research.

Mrs. Charles Slawson, wealthy New York woman, whose body was found near Santa Barbara, Cal., committed suicide by shooting, according to a coroner's jury's verdict.

BRITISH CONCEDE POINT TO THE FRENCH

Accept French View in Controversy Over Upper Silesia.

Paris, Aug. 1.—France scored a point in the controversy over the Silesian problem, Lord Hardinge, the British ambassador, informed Premier Briand that Great Britain willingly agrees to the proposals contained in the French premier's last note relative to troop reinforcements for Upper Silesia. The British ambassador at Berlin has been instructed to join his French and Italian colleagues in a common demand that the German government facilitate by all possible means the transport of allied troops across Germany whenever the situation in Upper Silesia renders it necessary. Marquis Curzon, the British foreign secretary, proposes Aug. 8 as the date for the meeting of the supreme council, as the Italian premier is unable to attend sooner. Premier Lloyd George will attend if the French desire his presence.

There is still a divergence of views between Paris and London regarding the advisability of considering now whether the allied troops ought to be withdrawn from Dusseldorf, Duisberg and Ruhrort, in the Ruhr area, which were occupied last spring as penalties for Germany's nonfulfillment of the peace treaty terms.

GUARD OF OVERSEAS SOLDIERS AT GRAVE

See That Regulations of Organization Are Observed.

Canton, August 1.—A guard of overseas soldiers stood lonely vigil all night last night and until 11 o'clock today, in Westlawn cemetery, over the body of Corporal Walter Griffith, who was killed in the battle of the Marne. The body arrived last week and arrangements were made for a military funeral, Sunday. Then the trustees of the cemetery announced that they had placed a ban on all Sunday funerals at the big cemetery and that Griffith's body could not be interred on that day.

Services were held at the grave and then a guard was posted on the flower and flag bedecked casket under a canopy, until this morning, when interment was made. Several thousand persons gathered at the cemetery expecting the legion to take the matter of burial into its own hands, but the legion men remained true to their belief in law and order.

GOVERNOR OPPOSES CONVICT LABOR

Would Not Put Convicts on Highway Work at Present.

Columbus, Aug. 1.—Governor Davis has announced that penitentiary prisoners now engaged in highway construction will be take back to the idle house and replaced by regularly employed working men. "As the use of every prisoner in connection with road building means a job less for the citizens of Ohio, it would be unfair to deprive anyone of an opportunity to get work in order to keep convicts busy on highways," Governor Davis said.

There are 180 prisoners now engaged in construction of 30 miles of the Cleveland-Columbus-Cincinnati road between Mt. Vernon and Wooster. Most of them were sent 12 days ago. The project is not to stop, but will be continued by men working for wages, the governor announced.

The governor in announcing his decision stated it was his purpose not to permit return to the use of convict labor for public work until reestablishment of normal conditions of employment clearly warrants.

Milwaukee, Aug. 1.—Donation of 1,000 barrels of beer to the United States public health service, for use medicinally in military hospitals and homes for veteran soldiers, has been offered by Charles C. Labahn, vice president of a brewing company at Fort Washington, Wis. The beer is sealed in the vats of the brewery, which was closed for one year by Federal Judge F. A. Geiger.

HOOVER CABLES BROWN TO ACT

To Proceed to Riga and Deal with Russ Officials.

PLANNING TO HELP SUFFERING PEOPLE

Americans Held as Prisoners in Russia Must Be Released at Once.

Washington, August 1.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover, today, cabled Walter L. Brown, director for Europe of the American relief administration, to proceed at once to Riga to open negotiations for the relief of the Russian famine situation. Hoover's instructions to Brown, who is now in London, stipulated that the Americans held prisoners in Russia must be delivered at Riga before discussions were opened.

Reply Received.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover, today, received a reply from Maxim Gorky to his recent communication setting forth the terms upon which American relief would be furnished to famine stricken Russia. The reply, which came by way of Riga and London, is now being considered, Secretary Hoover stated. No details of the purport of the reply were made public, but it is believed to be an acceptance of the conditions imposed by Hoover that American prisoners in Russia must be released before American famine relief would be forthcoming.

A Meeting Today.

Riga, August 1.—Maxim Gorky's reply to Herbert Hoover's communication to soviet Russia regarding conditions of American relief measures was handed to the American commissioner today.

The first meeting of the American and soviet officials occured, this morning, when Ganetsky, the Russian envoy, called upon the American commissioner.

Gorky has been put in charge of the Russian relief committee.

TENTS ARE BLOWN DOWN AT CAMP

Storm of Hurricane Proportions Sweeps Camp Perry.

Fort Clinton, O., Aug. 1.—Camp Perry was swept by a severe windstorm yesterday.

More than 200 tents were blown odwn, several officers and men of the Ohio national guard sustaining slight injuries by breaking tent poles. Some of the men were pulled 50 feet or more in an effort to hold down the dying tents.

A cloudburst, which accompanied the storm, made it impossible for those whose tents remained up to keep dry, and the entire camp was drenched.

The greatest damage and commotion was caused at the clubhouse, where administrative and squaw camps are located. These quarters are occupied by officers and their families. More than 50 tents here were laid flat and women and children were blown about in their night clothes. One little child was being forced toward the lake when rescued.

Temporary quarters have been established in the clubhouse for victims of the storm, cots and blankets having been placed there by Adjutant General George Florence.

Report Adopted.

Washington, August 1.—The senate today adopted the conference report on the Smoot-Sweet bill for the creation of a separate federal veteran's bureau to handle soldiers' aid. The war-risk insurance bureau, the vocational education board and similar agencies are to be consolidated in the new bureau. It is to be independent of any government department and answerable only to the president and to congress.

HE SLIPS AWAY FROM THE MOB

General Manager of Traction Line Quits Bridgeport.

MAN IS SLUGGED AND THEN JAILED

Official Protected by Authorities from Infuriated Citizens Until He Can Get Away.

Bridgeport, O., Aug. 1.—There is no car service from Bridgeport to Yorkville, Tiltonville and Rayland. Bus lines, however, operate without charge, but many of their patrons paid them 25 and 50 cents for rides that ordinarily cost 5 cents.

The switch point at the end of the Aetnaville bridge was removed by someone and thrown into the Ohio river. Streetcar men called to repair the damage were hooted at and jeered by a crowd of bus line sympathizers.

Another mob which had gathered at Wheeling succeeded in blocking traffic and riot squads of police had to be sent there to disperse it. Special constables had taken a number of bus drivers in tow, leaving their machines on the street, causing more congestion. Tracks at many places were greased, tieing up traffic.

C. P. Billings, vice president and manager of the Wheeling Traction company, slipped away from Bridgeport after a crowd which had gathered around the jail in which he was confined had been dispersed. He carries a blackened eye, sustained when he was attacked shortly before his arrest.

More than a score of bus drivers at Wheeling, W. Va., operating between the Ohio and West Virginia river points, are involved in the dispute, and reports from Wheeling are that nearly that number were arrested there Saturday for violating certain sections of the West Virginia state road law.

Road commissioners of West Virginia are reported to have issued a statement that the arrests were premature, since the law the drivers are charged with violating will not be effective until Aug. 9.

No arrests have been made at any of the other points affected. Bridgeport officials said no arrests were expected in connection with the removal of the Aetnaville bridge switch point.

AKRON MAN SHOOTS AT WIFE SUNDAY NIGHT

Fires Five Shots Without Effect and Is Jailed.

Akron, August 1.—After firing five shots at his wife, none of which took effect, Sam Dragon, thirty-five, jumped out of the second-story window of his home here, Sunday night, in an effort to escape from the police.

Dragon and his wife had quarreled and the man grabbed a revolver and began shooting while his wife successfully dodged. Two children also escaped by crouching on the floor. A squad of police captured Dragon after he jumped from the window.

"NEVER AGAIN" THE GERMANS ARE SAYING

Berlin, August 1.—"Never again" now is the slogan of Germany. A monster pacifist demonstration was held here Sunday, commemorating the seventh anniversary of the outbreak of the World war and marchers carried numerous banners with such inscriptions as: "No more war" and "peace for all time."

The sentiment of the demonstrators was reflected in the editorial comment of the newspapers, today.

FIRE CAUSES PANIC ABOARD CROWDED CAR

One Woman Is Seriously Wounded Near Canton.

Canton, August 1.—One woman was seriously injured and four other persons slightly hurt here, last night, when a broken trolley wire caused one of the double-header interurban cars running between Canton and Akron to burst into flames. Passengers stampeded. Mrs. Hazel Weimer, twenty-three, Dover, is in Mercy hospital here with contusions of the back and abdomen. She fell from the car and other passengers trampled her. The other injured were Miss Grace Race, Canton; Mrs. Frederick Rice, Carleton; Mrs. John Wood, North Canton and Walter Smith, of Akron. One bucket of water extinguished the fire.

BUCKEYE BRIEFS

Plant Reopened.

Springfield, O., Aug. 1.—Officers of the Robbins & Myers company announced that their plants resumed operations today with a force of 900 employes. Recently the company received several good-sized orders.

Merchant Loses Life.

Cleveland, Aug. 1.—F. E. Perkins, 40, Cleveland business man, was killed by the overturning of his automobile on a road south of Mentor. He was on his way to his summer home when the accident occurred.

Negro Drowned.

Columbus, Aug. 1.—Jacobet Lumby, 21, negro, was drowned in the Scioto river near the junction of the Olentangy. With his two brothers Lumby was swimming there and was seized with cramps and sank before aid could reach him.

Former Marshal Lewis Dead.

Cincinnati, Aug. 1.—Eugene L. Lewis, former United States marshal of the southern district of Ohio and auditor of Hamilton county, died in Delmonte, Cal. Mr. Lewis went to California several weeks ago in an effort to recuperate his health.

Killed by Lightning.

Akron, O., Aug. 1.—Lee McFara, 14, of Massillon, was instantly killed at Turkeyfoot lake during a severe electrical and windstorm. He was a member of a Boy Scout troop camping at the lake. A companion ran out of the tent just before the lightning struck it.

July's Heat Record.

Columbus, Aug. 1.—Last month was the hottest July in the history of the local weather bureau. The month registered 17 days with a maximum temperature of 90 degrees or more. And all of the remaining days were above normal except three. As in June, it is necessary to go back to 1911 to find a corresponding month even approaching the one just passed in extremes of temperatures.

McGannon Trial.

Cleveland, August 1.—Trial of ex-Judge William H. McGannon and others charged with contempt of court and obstructing justice, were postponed until September 19, by Judge Homer G. Powell. The absence of D. T. Anderson, of Youngstown, Cartwright's chief counsel, who is taking a vacation in Canada, caused the postponement.

Town Threatened.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 1.—Eldora, Iowa, a town of 2,000 inhabitants, sixty miles northeast of here, was threatened with total destruction by fire today. The greater part of the business district already has been destroyed.

FIVE MEN SHOT AFTER WHISKY TRIAL

Battle at Proctorville Lasts About Thirty Minutes.

Huntington, West Virginia, August 1.—Five men were wounded in a gun battle following a whisky trial at Proctorville, Ohio, this afternoon. The wounded are Alta Pine, farmer, shot five times and probably fatally wounded; John Smith, shot through the leg; Harry Pine, shot through the leg; Dillie Edwards, shot through the leg; and another man whose name was unknown, was shot through the body.

Harry Pine was tried on a whisky charge and fined $100. Following the trial, many of the principals and witnesses gathered outside Mayor J. A. Bowen's office. The fight started between Harry Pine and Harry Jones. Alta Pine hit Winifred Hicks, brother of Constable Walter Hicks, when he thought the younger Hicks was going to draw a gun. Hicks got a gun from his father. He shot Alta Pine five times. Dillie Edwards tried to take the gun from Hicks and was shot through the leg.

The shooting continued for more than a half hour, it is said. Efforts were made by the mayor and other authorities to quell the battle, but were in vain.

IRISH SETTLEMENT IS STILL PENDING

British Government Waiting for Sinn Fein To Move.

London, August 1.—The Irish settlement is still pending and no move will be made by the British government until the Sinn Fein at Dublin takes decisive action.

Premier Lloyd George declared this to be the status of the Irish situation, this afternoon, when he made a brief statement in the house of commons. The premier was asked by a member if he was in a position to make an announcement upon the Irish peace negotiations. The premier replied:

"The Sinn Fein has not yet replied to the government's terms. Consequently, I am unable to make a statement at this time."

THE SICK

Albert L. Thompson, of Prospect, who was injured Saturday by a steer at the Prospect stockyards is reported to be doing as well as could be expected. His condition today is better than Sunday evening, it was announced at the city hospital today.

Miss Maude Smith, stenographer at the local telephone office, who underwent an operation for acute appendicitis, last Friday at the City hospital, is reported to be recovering nicely.

Miss Edith Jolliff, of Richwood, who underwent an operation a week ago at the City hospital, is recovering nicely, it was reported today.

Didn't Know Ty.

Hiram Johnson, Republican senator from California, is one of the hottest baseball fans in the country. Jim Phelan, Democratic senator, knows nothing about the game. Here is proof of the latter statement.

The other day Walter Johnson, premier pitcher of the American league, and Ty Cobb, the greatest ball player in all history, perhaps, paid the senate a visit. After they had been introduced all around and been the subject of a great deal of hero worship, Phelan went over to Eddie Halsey of the senate staff, and asked:

"Who is this Ty Cobb, anyhow?"

Halsey almost passed away, but he managed to tell Phelan that "Cobb is a fellow who plays ball for a living."

Meantime Johnson was enjoying hugely the visit of the two ball players.

JAPANESE VIEW OF CONFERENCE

Baron Sakatini Talks of Issues of Countries.

CHINA IS THE ONLY INFLAMMABLE ISSUE

Japanese Immigration Will Never Cause Serious Trouble, According to Baron.

Washington, August 1—If the Washington armament-limitation conference fails in its results mutual suspicion of each other's intentions towards China will be responsible, in the opinion of Baron Sakatini, member of the Japanese house of peers and vice president of the American Japan society.

China is the only "inflammable" issue of the many now before the two nations, the baron asserts in a lengthy review of Japan-American relations, the text of which reached here today, from Tokyo.

Japanese immigration in California, Yap, Korea and Shantung affords no reason for trouble, the baron believes, but intelligent care must be used in dealing with the situation resulting from the conflict of American and Japanese interests in China.

"Americans suspect Japanese designs in China, while the Japanese entertain similar suspicions towards America," said the baron. "If these suspicions on both sides can be removed, there is no reason why the two countries should have trouble on account of China."

If Japan has expressed her readiness to return Shantung to China, the baron stated, "there can be no fear of that question ever being made a cause for difference between Japan and the United States. Japan will adhere to the policy of preservation of China's integrity and of the open-door principle," he said. "The partition of China is what the Japanese have been dreading for many years, but as a result of the World war this apprehension has been completely removed."

TRIBUTE PAID THE PILGRIMS

insure dominance to the intelligent will of a free people.

Whether we reflect upon the restraints upon freedom which the Fathers imposed or measure the broader liberty under the law of today, here began the reign of dependable public opinion which unfailingly is the law of the highest civilization. One may not say whether the Puritans would, at home, been able to work out such a system if there had been no American colonies and the colonial influences to react upon the mother country. Doubtless the English revolution which came soon after the settlement at Plymouth, would have come even had there been no settlement, no Massachusetts bay colony, no Virginia plantation. But it is easy to believe in the long struggle after the restoration, the fruits of the revolution, the strengthened parliamentary institutions and the restrictions on royal perogative were helped by the influence of colonial democracy.

It is a difficult task to single out and measure the factors in political and social progress. The germ of progress is doubtless universal, but requires favorable conditions for its development. Conditions were favorable in the new world and the Plymouth colony was destined to begin the surpassing story of three centuries of ardent, eager pursuit of human justice.

No one will dispute the large part New England played in the rearing of new standards of freedom. The world chorus, today, rejoicing in maintained democracy, attuned its chord to the notes first sounded here. This development of liberty, this great conception of freedom, took ever firmer hold, until it was held and voiced unceasingly by those who bore aloft its banners here. And there was significant reflex in the motherland.

No Englishman will do his country full justice or will quite understand its human story who does not seek out and study the effects of thir sympathy and interaction by the seasoned, age-old liberalism of the English countryside and the new, eager, outstretching aspirations of those who were planting the seed in a fresh soil and guarding its early development.

Things Fundamental.

No American fully appraises his country's contribution to mankind's advance if he overlooks these things which were truly fundamental in creating two towers of national strength for freedom, where there might have been but one. That manifest destiny whose directing hand we descry when we survey the long processes of history, would doubtless have brought at last the happy state of both political and religious freedom. But without cooperation of forces, reaction of influences between the old England and the new, we may well doubt whether the light of the new day would have broken through to shine you to better fortunes of an emancipated race without a struggle longer by generations, perhaps by centuries, than that which history records. * * *

Hand of man alone did not build what was founded here: it was but the visible sign, the human symbol of a purpose which we may not understand, but for whose beneficence all men must give tribute of praise and voice undying gratitude. We may speculate and conjecture, we may seek to frame laws of human relationship by which to account for such results as here have been wrought; but at last we will have to recognize that they are not for us to explain.

Failed To Understand.

Even Cromwell in his great leadership, failed to understand. He spoke contemptuously of those whom he accused of running away from the struggle at home. * * *

There has never lived a generation of men possessing such wealth of historic materials, such capacity for candid analysis, such broad experience to guide them in right determination, as the generation to which we belong. Likewise there has been none which confronted more complex and difficult problems. Therefore, I like to commend study of the history which began here at Plymouth, in its relations to the sweep of modern affairs. It teaches us that sometimes schism may lead to true solidarity, that division man mean multiplication. * * *

The community of free people of our race, whether in Europe or America, in Africa or Australia, under the northern or the southern skies—whether held together by political ties or by the yet more potent bonds of common traditions, institutions, language and blood—this community, spreads now to all quarters of the world, was begun when founded.

Jamestown and Plymouth were

Its work is not finished; but pray God it has come triumphantly through its determining ordeal. It comes forth from that test, nerved and heartened for further tasks, confident, assured, reliant. None questions either its place or its right of leadership; few doubt its destiny to establish, under that divine guidance which it has ever recognized, the splendid structure of human brotherhood in peace and understanding.

The perspectives of history are not safely to be judged, save from the loftiest peaks of human experience.

With Confidence.

We stand, today, before the unknown but we look to the future with confidence unshaken. There is no retracing, we must forever go on. * * *

The outstanding danger of today is the tendency to turn to Washington for the things which are the tasks or the duties of the forty-eight commonwealths which constitute the nation. Having wrought the nation as the central power of preservation and defense, let us preserve it so.

A new hope looms today. We are slowly but surely recovering from the wastes and sorrows and utter disarrangements of a cataclysmal war. Peace is bringing its new assurances; and penitent realization and insistent conscience will preserve that peace. Our faith is firmer that wars causes may be minimized and overburdening armament may be largely diminished. And these, too, without surrender of the nationality which has inspired, or the good conscience which has defended.

In the story of 300 years, there is every recompense for the agencies of yesterday, there is our staff for the burdens of today; there is our assurance for the trials of tomorrow. The civilization of today, the status of mankind, has been reached by many routes. We have approximated the common vision, the united purpose, the one supreme aid.

Plymouth, Massachusetts, August 1.—President Harding landed here at 10:55, today, from the Mayflower, within a few yards of the spot where 300 years ago the Pilgrim fathers landed.

With martial airs and formal salutes, the president and Mrs. Harding wended their way past the historic streets of the town at the head of a procession honoring the Pilgrims.

The president's first act upon landing was to present medals for excellence in English to thirty-five New Bedford school children.

After Three Centuries.

Plymouth, Massachusetts, August 1.—Three centuries after the Pilgrim fathers sailed into Plymouth harbor and laid the foundation of the American nation, President Harding came, today, to this national shrine to pay his tribute to the nation's founders and the principles which they laid down for the nation's building.

The president, aboard the modern Mayflower and sailing the same course which Miles Standish and his fellow pioneers followed in the historic Mayflower, entered the sunlit Cape Cod amidst a great patriotic ...

The Pilgrim fathers caused small excitement to a few scattered Indians when they came to Plymouth, but President Harding, escorted by two big battleships from the Atlantic fleet and a division of destroyers, with big guns booming in salute, aroused the greatest patriotic fervor in the bosoms of thousands gathered here to commemorate the memories of their courageous forefathers.

This old New England town is in gala array, waiting to do honor to the nation's chief executive when he landed within a stone's throw of the famed Plymouth rock, where the Pilgrims are reputed to have first set foot.

President Harding's first act upon landing was to urge the children of America to carry on the principles which brought success to the Pilgrims in their long struggle against great odds to found Plymouth colony. Thirty-five nervously excited school girls of New Bedford were waiting upon the dock for the president, who is to present medals to them for having made the greatest advances in study of the English language in New Bedford schools.

To Lead Procession.

The president consented to lead a procession which will depict the early life in Plymouth. Lineal descendants of the early settlers were participating in the parade, including Miss Priscilla Alden, of Bridgewater, a descendant of John Allen, Princess Woonekanauke, a descendant of Governor Winslow.

After leading the parade through the historic streets of Plymouth, the president was to review the procession. At the conclusion of the parade, the chief executive will be entertained at luncheon. Late this afternoon he will deliver an address to hordes of New Englanders who have flocked into this historic town for the past week.

It was not alone an American tribute that was paid to the Pilgrim fathers, today. England, whence the Pilgrims fled from persecutions, paid her measure of honor. The British cruiser, Cambrian, lays in the harbor. Isaac Foote, deputy mayor of Plymouth, England, was here as the representative of the United Kingdom and Captain Bailey, naval attache, represented the British embassy. Charge d'Beaufort, of the Netherlands legation, represented his nation, the original home of the Pilgrims.

Distinguished Men.

President Harding was not the only distinguished American here, for Vice President Coolidge, Secretary Weeks, Senator Lodge, Senator Frelinhuysen, Senator Hale, of Maine and many members of congress were also present.

Governor Cox, of Massachusetts, headed the delegation of New England governors.

Tonight, the president will be entertained at dinner at the Pilgrim inn and then he will view the Plymouth pageant where the native citizens of Plymouth will reenact the landing of the Pilgrims and the first few months of hardships which they underwent.

At the conclusion of the pageant, the president will again board the Mayflower and sail for Portland, Maine, whence he will motor to the summer home of Secretary of War Weeks, at Lancaster, New Hampshire.

The presidential yacht steamed across Cape Cod bay in the wake of the Pennsylvania, flagship of the Atlantic fleet and dropped anchor in Plymouth harbor at 9:15 a. m.

CHILDREN'S PAGEANT VERY WELL PRESENTED

"Courage and Vision" Finale to Junior Chautauqua.

REPRESENTS AMERICA AS VAST WILDERNESS

Coming of the Pilgrims and the Making of Peace with the Indians.

The pageant masque, "Courage and Vision," given at the Chautauqua platform Saturday evening as a finale to the Junior Chautauqua work, delighted both old and young alike, and, being all home talent, held a closer interest, as many of those in the audience had children in the cast.

Everything went off fine, as Mrs. Daisy Freeman Asman, who directed the children's work and put on the pageant, had the children trained splendidly. The young people also appearing in the entertainment carried their parts very well and, as a whole, the pageant was one of the most pleasing and entertaining ever put on at the local Chautauqua.

The pageant represented America as a wilderness and the Pilgrims coming here and later making peace with the Indians. It also showed the spirit of the ages to follow.

"Spirit of the Wilderness."

Miss Mary Hughs represented the "Sprit of the Wilderness" and called to the platform, first the trees—a number of little boys carrying branches of trees, who formed a background for girls in blue and white, who danced among the trees representing streams. Then a number of little boys came in dressed to represent birds and they fluttered about until three morning-glory girls tripped upon the stage, waving blossoms. The butterfly girls flitted about and then made way for the rainbow girls, who, in their frocks of rainbow hues, gave a pretty dance.

While Miss Hughs was entertaining with a dance a couple dressed as a Pilgrim man and woman entered and following them came Indian braves.

Second Part of Pageant.

The second part of the pageant, which represented "Courage," showed Pilgrim men, women and children on their way to church and Indians attacking them. The next scene was that of the first Thanksgiving and Carl Campbell, representing Governor Bradford, called the people to give thanks. The Indians come to the feast and the Pilgrim boys and girls pass them food. Massasoit gives thanks and Indian maidens dance to the water spirit. After the Indians leave the women clear the feast away and the Pilgrims play a singing game, "Over the Green Grass."

In part three, Governor Bradford, still represented by Carl Campbell, muses loud and calls up the "spirit of the ages." America, represented by Linconia Cheney, first makes her appearance, dressed in the national colors and following her came two couples representing the men and women of colonial days.

America Calls.

America then calls for "Progress," who was represented by Mildred Ruhl. Then came Amy Speece as "Liberty;" Carolyn Oborn as "Democracy;" Emily Burgin as "Industry," Pauline Ruhl as "Law and Justice;" Helen Roby as "Education." Three represented "Religion"—Mary Hughs as "Faith," Claire Carrier as "Hope" and Eva Cushman as "Charity." Lastly came the "Years."

Those representing the Colonial days favored the audience with a dance. The Colonial dancers were Lucille Callahan, Doris Bondley, Mildred Hollandshed and Beryl Merchant.

Streams and Years—Anna Bell Johnston, Dorothy Stark, Phyllis Wood, Bertice Glassener, Berdine Becker, Virginia Miller, Frances Jennings, Dorothy Wooley, Ruby Vestal, Josephine Jones, Mary Houston and Margaret Abbott.

Birds—Bobby McCurdy, Edward Neal, Billy Merchant, Bobby Ayre, Olin Young and Billy Gibson.

Morning Glories—Erma Prettyman, Helen Cathers, Jean Snider and Lizabeth Carrier.

Butterflies—Irene Miller, Florence Mitchell, Katherine Snider, Margaret Merchant, Margaret Tracy, Mary Carrier and Winifred Ayre.

Rainbow Maidens.

Rainbow Maidens — Lucile McCurdy, Dorothy Snider, Nila Miller, Martha Baher, Mary Neal, Ella Bain, Katherine Eymon, Alice Adams, Ruth Schott, Thelma Barton and Jonita Jackson.

Indians — Lorin Winters, chief Massasoit, Marcellus Wise, George Gretzer, Edward Sloan, Harold Waddell, George Headley, Billy Van Arsdell, Paul Thomas, Harold Henry, Harold Winters and Foster Winters.

Pilgrim Boys—Laddie Van Arsdell, Paul Hunt, Joe Roby and Harold Stewart.

Pilgrim Girls — Helen French, Margaret Whysall, Clara Uncapher, Grace Wise, Rachael Hensler, Helen McCurdy, Annabel and Isabell McCallahan.

DR. MABEL Q. STEVENS LECTURES ON CHRIST

Appears in the Garb of Ancient Times—Tells of the Great Passion Play.

The Garner Jubilee Concert company gave a prelude to the main part of the program yesterday afternoon at the last afternoon session of the Marion County Chautauqua. The first number was "Steal the Way to Jesus," by N. Clark Smith, sung by the entire company. The second selection was composed of two songs, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," by Burleigh, and "O, Lord I'm Hungry," sung by William Hart. Following this Miss Monroe sang two soprano solos, "Robert La Diable," from Cavatina, by Meyerbeer, and "Beloved, It Is Morning" by Alyward. The last number on the prelude was a number composed of two songs sung by Miss Ellison accompanied by the rest of the company. The songs were "All of My Sins Have Been Carried Away," and "In My Heart."

For Next Year.

Immediately following the prelude George Whysall, acting platform manager and president of the Chautauqua, directed the passing out of pledge cards for next season's Chautauqua.

Mrs. W. N. Harder was then called upon to say something concerning the work of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs in supporting the Chautauqua. Mrs. Harder said that great efforts had been placed in Chautauqua week on the part of the ladies and that it was a sad realization that Marion suffered a lack of good first-rate entertainment which could be provided by a chautauqua. She closed her short talk by saying that it was possible to make the Chautauqua a vital element in community education.

Dr. Mabel Quam Stevens, noted Bible student and lecturer, was introduced, appearing in a Roman toga for the first part of her sermon lecture, "Jesus Only."

Life of Jesus.

Mrs. Stevens said that she would devote her entire lecture to the life of Christ alone, dividing her narrative into three divisions. She began her interesting lecture by tracing the ancestry and genealogy of Christ down through several generations, showing Him to be the descendant of four kings. She began her narrative proper with the life of the Virgin Mary who, she said, was the greatest woman that ever trod the face of the earth. She proceeded on to the birth of Christ at Bethlehem, telling of the traditional prophecies of the birth of the Messiah. At this point in her lecture Mrs. Stevens made a digression from her narrative and told of the life and customs of a Palestine shepherd, bringing out in a very interesting way the extreme devotion exercised by the shepherd towards his sheep.

Story Is Unfolded.

Going back to her story again she told of the birth of the Christ in the manger and the visit of the wise men. Mrs. Stevens then told, weaving into her story incidents of her own experience in the Holy Land, the narrative of the coming of Christ into maturity. She told of Jesus as the carpenter, which, she said, was a very honorable trade in the old country.

The first part of her lecture was ended by Christ's devotion of his life to that of helping others and of good deeds in the face of overpowering opposition.

Mrs. Stevens appeared for the second part of her lecture in the tunic of a Roman noble. She took up the second part of her story at the scene of the Last Supper, describing this scene as only a dramatic interpretor of a high order could.

Describes Oberammergau.

A great part of her narrative in this part of her lecture was composed of a description of the great passion play of Oberammergau, which she had witnessed when making a tour of Europe. She very dramatically described the betrayal by Judas, and the trial and conviction of Jesus, terminating the second part of her lecture by a very vivid picture of the Crucifixion.

For the third and last part of her program Mrs Stevens appeared in the street costume of a Roman woman. The latter part of her lecture was devoted to the burial and ascension of Christ. She terminated her interesting lecture with a story of her own personal experience with her work here in America.

Programs on Saturday.

Members of the Garner Jubilee Concert company gave two programs at the Chautauqua, Saturday, making their first appearance before the Marion audience with a full concert in the afternoon and postlude in the evening.

This company is composed of seven highly educated and talented colored people and George W. Garner, Jr., is the manager and tenor soloist. His wife, the pianist, is the only colored girl twice soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. She is a graduate of Northwestern university and plays beautifully.

The other members of the company are Miss May Ellen Monroe, soprano; Miss Olva Ellison, contralto; George B. Disselle, barifone; William McMorris, base, and William Hart, second tenor.

Saturday afternoon the numbers which seemed to please most were two dialect readings by Mrs. Garner, one of which was "How Lucy Backslid;" "Ain't Goin' t' Study War No More," a jubilee song by Mr. McMorris, and a tenor solo group including "The Awakening," by Strosa; "Vell," by Russell, and "You Better Ask Me," by Lohr.

The evening's program was opened with "The Bridal Chorus," from "Rose Maiden," Cowen, by the entire company. This was followed by "Roll, Jordon Roll," and an old camp-meeting song, led by Mr. McMorris, who has a splendid voice. The company sang "Ride on King Jesus," the song being led by Miss Monroe, whose voice is rich and clear. Mrs. Garner played a piano solo and Miss Ellison gave a reading in dilect, "The Party," by Paul Lawrence Dunbar. The program was closed with Tosti's "Goodbye," with choral arrangement by Parks.

All the members of the company possess remarkably good voices; the readers entertained delightfully, and the piano selections were lovely.

DELIVERY BOY KNOCKED SENSELESS BY MOTOR CAR

Paul Worden, of East Church Street, Is Victim.

Paul Worden, fifteen-eyar-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Worden, No. 632 east Church street, had his shoulder and the back of his neck badly bruised Saturday afternoon about 5:15 o'clock when he was struck by an automobile at the corner of Church street and Cummin avenue.

The boy helps to deliver for the Merchant's Delivery company on Saturdays. He had started with a package of meat to a house on the south side of the Church street and just as he reached the sidewalk the driver called to him, "No,the north side," the boy started back across the street.

In going behind a truck from the west he failed to see a car approaching from the east. He was struck by the radiator of the automobile from the last and thrown about fifteen feet to the west and landed against the curb, unconscious.

The driver of the car stopped his machine as soon as possible. The boy was removed to his home.

STRUCK AND KILLED ON COUNTRY ROAD

Nevada Young Man Run Down by Auto Near Bucyrus.

Bucyrus, August 1. — Sheridan Baird, aged twenty, of Nevada, died in a local hospital two hours after he was struck by an automobile, driven by Mrs. Charles E. Geiger, of Bucyrus, Saturday night. Baird was riding a bicycle along a country road, coming from home to Bucyrus to see a friend and Mrs. Geiger was driving for an evening ride. Another machine came along to meet the Geiger car, both dimming their lights and neither observed Baird on a bicycle without lights in between the cars. Baird was thrown from the road, the bicycle crumpled and wrecked and Baird never regained consciousness after the accident.

ODD FELLOWS MEET AT LARUE SATURDAY

About 300 Witness Conferring of Initiatory Degree.

LaRue, O., August 1.—[Special.]—The Marion County I. O. O. F. Visiting association held a meeting in the Knights of Pythias hall, Saturday evening. Preceding the meeting Wayside and Kosciusko lodge from Marion gave an exhibition drill on the street.

The initiatory work was put on by the Green Camp lodge. About 300 were present, nearly every Odd Fellow lodge in the county being represented.

BRYAN'S TALK BRINGS CHAUTAUQUA TO CLOSE

Pleads for Education, Religion and Government,

AS THESE PRICELESS HERITAGES OF AMERICA

Touches on the Ungrateful Child—Counts on Women To Guard John Barleycorn.

An eloquent appeal to American citizens to value more highly their three priceless gifts of education, religion and form of government, and express their gratitude in service, was voiced by William J. Bryan Sunday night in the closing number of the Marion County Chautauqua.

Mr. Bryan motored to Marion from Delaware, where he arrived about 6:45 o'clock Sunday evening. He was met at Delaware by W. T. Jones, J. W. Jacoby and W. H. Holverstott, who brought the speaker to Marion in Mr. Jones' automobile.

Mr. Bryan spoke at the Miami Valley Chautauqua, near Dayton, Sunday afternon. He left Marion for Cincinnati at 11:15 o'clock Sunday night.

Chairman of Evening.

George Whysall, head of the Chautauqua board, acted as chairman of the evening. He announced that Mr. Bryan would not arrive until 8 o'clock and said that the members of the Garner Jubilee Concert company had kindly volunteered to remain in Marion and entertain the audience during the half hour from 7:30 o'clock until Mr. Bryan arrived.

Mr. Whysall said this company was scheduled to leave Marion for Cincinnati Sunday afternoon, but instead decided to stay for the evening program and leave at midnight.

Hearty applause greeted this announcement and the various numbers given by the company were warmly received. The singers presented some opera selections, negro camp meeting songs and negro spirituals and were forced to respond to a number of encores. Just as Mr. Bryan arrived the company led the assembly in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

J. Wilbur Jacoby predicted the best Chautauqua program ever in Marion for next year if $5,000 is guaranteed by subscribers of season tickets. He complimented the women of the federated clubs and stated that if it hadn't been for their cooperation, "I doubt if we should have enjoyed the program this year."

A Sensible Presentation.

Mr. Whysall presented Mr. Bryan with the simple announcement, "Ladies and gentlemen, Colonel Bryan."

Commenting on this, Mr. Bryan said that he did not remember many introductions as brief as that. "There is one," he said, "when I was introduced at the Buckhorn school-house that I often referred to when I felt that I needed to get down off a pedestal. I was to speak there and as a young lawyer I was anxious to advertise myself. The chairman asked me what he should say, and I told him to announce that 'Mr. W. J. Bryan, an attorney-at-law of Jacksonville, Illinois, will speak.' I repeated this a number of times and when my time came to speak the chairman said "Mr. O'Brien will now spake.'"

"I have been on the Chautauqua platform for twenty-six years and have learned to appreciate it," Mr. Bryan said in referring to Mr. Jacoby's remarks about the Marion County Chautauqua. "There is a big difference between a political audience and a Chautauqua audience. In any representative political audience you will find three groups. Your friends who are predisposed to believe anything you say whether it is true or not. Your political enemies, who are predisposed to reject anything you say whether it is true or not, and the curious, who retire when their curiosity is satisfied. But the Chautauqua audience is made up of people who come to hear, and they listen.

A Bryan Sally.

"If a man has a message to deliver there is no other audience under the sun like the Chautauqua audience. The Chautauqua platform is the favorite of many public men. It is so high that President Harding stepped from that platform to the White House and former President Taft stepped from the White House to the Chautauqua platform, so you mustn't be too hard on a Democrat if he meanders for twenty-five years between the platform and the White House.

"In a political campaign we discuss our differences, while in the Chautauqua we discuss the questions that bring us together.

"But I have a permanent subject for tonight, one that will be just as important in 2,000 years as it is now. I can say this definitely because the question is just as important now as it was 1,900 years ago when the Master taught the lesson of the ten lepers who were cleansed and only one returned to express his gratitude.

"'Where are the nine?' That question of the Master is the most stinging rebuke of the sin of ingratitude that has come down through the centuries. This matter of ingratitude is a subject on which a preacher could speak every Sunday for a year and never repeat. In all probability he would begin by speaking of the ungrateful child. It is not my purpose to speak of the thankless child. Rather, I would apply it to the line of work in which I have been engaged. For thirty years I have studied the problems of government and the seeming indifference of our citizens.

Here They Are.

"Let us consider the three priceless gifts that can not be described in language or estimated in dollars, gifts which we receive and enjoy and in many cases they make no impression on us and stir in us no passion for service.

"The first of these gifts is education. It is more a gift than an accomplishment. I know that some differ with me in this, but I have thought it over and have come to the conclusion that it is more the result of what others do for us than what we do for ourselves. When I find a man who says he is self-made, I want to cross-examine him.

"We are born into an intellectual atmosphere and children go to school so early that it is hardly proper to say they go to school. They are sent to school. I remember asking a little boy how old he was. His answer was that he was five years old on the train, seven at school and six at home.

"Take the country over and only about one child in ten enters the High school, one in fifty enters college and about one in 100 continues in school until reaching that age when we say reason has matured, the age of twenty-one years. When we finish school do we estimate the sacrifice others made for us, estimate the cost and feel that because of what has been done we should express our gratitude in service?

"But the Bible doesn't say the nine lepers used the strength God gave them against society. Many of our scholars not only are ungrateful, but they use the very strength society has given them against society.

Quotes Roosevelt.

"Colonel Roosevelt, in speaking at Harvard, once said there wasn't a great conspiracy against the public welfare that did not have Harvard brains behind it. I thank Roosevelt for that statement, but he might as well have said it at Yale, Columbia, Princeton or any of the large or small universities. It would not take long to correct abuses if it were not for the trained minds behind them. Reforms do not, as a rule, come down from the scholars. They begin in the hearts of the masses who suffer.

"This is only the first of the three gifts. The next is more important, because I am more interested in the heart and its development than I am in the mind and its training. Let no one go away and say I manifest little interest in education. No one is more interested in education than I. If I had my way every child in the world would be educated. Can any one go further than that?

"But the Bible says 'As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.' If the real thinking is in the heart, then the heart is more important to consider than the head. When we speak of the heart we have to turn to religion, because that is the only influence that can control the heart. In spite of all the churches are doing, only a little more than one-half the male population is connected with the church. But every person is benefited by what churches do, whether he is a member or not. For every one made honest by law, one hundred are made honest by conscience."

Three Great Opportunities.

Mr. Bryan said the church has three great opportunities to use its power, the labor question, establishing God's law of reward and working toward disarmament. "In this labor question, what plan is there but God's plan to make every man a willing worker?" Mr. Bryan asked. "And in establishing God's law of reward every human being would collect that which he rightfully earned."

Mr. Bryan said he would not fix a maximum amount which a person can earn and yet give an equiva of service to society. "Thomas Edison and Abraham Lincoln, I lieve, earned more than $500,0 000. I will name one more. If W ren G. Harding is able to bring gether a disarmament confere and succeeds in disarming world, all the arithmetics will not able to figure the value of ser ice has given humanity." He name number of inventors, whom he had given a maximum of service can not be figured, discoveries remedies for disease and founders different organizations.

"Never in a single case did one these men collect all he earned," Bryan said, "because those earned it were too busy earning to collect and those who coll $500,000,000 are too busy collect it to earn it.

"I know of no graver indictm that can be brought against church than the World war and ter we emerge from it we find leading nations spending m money than ever preparing for next war.

The Bright Side.

"But there is a bright side. think it is probable President Har ing's conference may become t most important movement in hu dreds of years, more important th the peace conference of Paris, wh ended one war. This may end wars. I believe it is the duty of Christian world to stand back of th movement.

"I was impressed at Hobok wen Presient Harding sto among the dead soldiers broug back from France. 'It shall nev happen again,' the president sai and if he can make that come tr that speech will stand in histo with Lincoln's address at Gett burg.

"The third priceless gift is o form of government. Wouldn't suppose that people who inherit government like this would live to all the responsibilities of citizenship? It would seem so but t hardest work of a campaign is to the vote out. What excuses peop give for not doing their duty citizens. Think of a man who fuses to vote because he has mad a mistake. The Republicans are n that sensitive. When I was a you man I thought if my party got in power all wrongs would be correct and there wouldn't be anything le for any other party to do. It didn take me long to learn that I wa wrong. I found some bad men my party and for the last thir years I have been trying to get a the good Republicans out of the R publicans publican party into th Democratic party and all the ba Democrats out of the Democrat party into the Republican party. am even willing to exchange at t rate of sixteen bad Democrats f one good Republican.

Under No Party.

"The government never will perfect under any party, but must make it as perfect as we ca Conditions change and laws mu be made to meet changed condi tions. I think the wisest thi the framers of the constitution d was to give us the right to chan the constitution. We have ad nineteen amendments, four of th in the last fifteen years. It to a long time to change the con stitution because the people are alert. It took twenty-one years change the constitution so as elect senators by direct vote. took seventeen years to add t amendment to collect an incom tax.

The prohibition amendment a long while and it will take a good while to sense the sa ness of that change. It al has made progress in driving of politics the worst influence in it. I never expected to see the nation dry. I never exp ed to live to see the day when Democratic party would be dr made me mad twice when the ocratic party was called wet it made me mad to think a Re lican could say so mean a about any party and it mad mad a second time because I not deny it. But my party a glorious part in making the na dry and it was the work of

CHURCH SOCIETY

Willing Workers Hike.

Members of the Willing Workers' class, of the First Reformed church, enjoyed a hike Sunday to the woods on the W. H. Kraner farm, one and one-half miles south of the city. A picnic dinner was spread at noon.

Change in Mass.

Sunday masses at St. Mary's Catholic church will be at 7, 8 and 9:30 o'clock for the remainder of the summer, beginning next Sunday morning. Announcement of this change was made Sunday morning.

Girls' Glee Club.

The Girls' Glee club, of Northwestern college, who gave an entertainment at the Calvary Evangelical church last evening and which journeyed to Bucyrus and gave programs Saturday evening and Sunday morning, returned to the city last evening and presented a program consisting entirely of sacred music at the Greenwood Evangelical church.

A large crowd attended the entertainment, as the church was hardly able to accomodate the crowd. The Glee club, under the direction of Miss Lulu Kuske, is making a tour of several states in the interest of the college which it represents. The club members left this morning for Tiffin, where they will give a program tonight.

Daily Proverb.—A man conducts himself abroad as he has been taught at home."

So there really is a Princess Fatima. And all this time we thought that it was the name of a cigaret!

"Times surely have changed," observed the restaurant philosopher at luncheon today. "My memory goes back to a time when a silhouette skirt attracted attention."

Evidently the lower house of the Texas general assembly doesn't consider the Ku Klux Klan so much of a menace as it has been claimed up here. Of course, it's always possible that the Klan is enough of a menace to have thrown scare into the legislators.

One of those unfortunate mentalities given to talking about "unearned increment" and stuff like that, wants the government to convert its debts into assets in some way figuring that the governments securities are held by "the profiteers." In other words, to take its bonds from the holders of government securities and apply them for the benefit of those too unpatriotic to loan to the government during the war.

EATEN UP BY THE "DE DUCKS."

The farmer who recently explained why he needed to borrow money in spite of the fact that he had just sold his corn may not have used standard English pronunciation in his discourse to the banker, but even the keeper of the strong box had to admit that the message was perfectly clear.

He said it was "de ducks" which ate up the money which the corn should have yielded. This of course was unintelligible to the banker, who like the rest of us did not believe that ducks eat money. He didn't even understand how the farmer's ducks could eat the corn which the farmer had really sold and shipped, out of the reach of the ducks.

But the explanation left no room for further doubts. On the market it seems the corn was sold for fifty-two cents a bushel. "But," the farmer said, "they de duck the freight, that left thirty-one cents." Further "de ducks" for commission, for elevator charges, for hauling and husking and for other operations left five cents a bushel as the farmer's share of the corn. "De duck the hired man's wages from that," said the farmer, "and you are a darn sight better farmer than I am if you can end anything left."

The banker may not have been a sadder man on hearing the farmer's lecture on the economies of distribution; but he should be a wiser man. This little lesson on how "de ducks" eat up the profits is one which may explain much not otherwise clear to us. It is making out no brief for the farmer to say that on its way from the farm to our dining-room table the farmer's produce is subjected to all too many "de duck" processes. Nor does the farmer pay for all of these deductions. The consumer pays his share too.

The point that there is not the establishment of the fact or theory over it as to who pays the greater share of this additional increase in cost; the important thing is the recognition that unless we guard against it, there is ever the tendency of increased costs whenever some clever gentleman evolves a scheme whereby they can make a "de duck" from the transaction. The number of middlemen and agents is always likely to increase, rather than to decrease, by itself. Some of these men may add something to the value of the article in question, others may justly exact a toll because they expedite distribution. Aside from these men, however, there are always gentlemanly bandits of commerce who, though they neither toil nor spin, rigorously exact the toll—whatever the traffic will bear. It is the "de ducks" of this sentry against which we ought to fortify ourselves.

A HARD TRAINER

A BUSINESS LIKE POLICY.

The war department, under the guidance of Secretary Weeks has adopted a business-like policy in handling the small remaining surplus of goods, and General Dawes, who was selected by the president to head the budget bureau, is urging that good business judgment be exercised in all departments in the care, distribution and use of government property. Instead of letting the various bureaus follow the old practice of buying new furniture, equipment, typewriters, etc, while there was used furniture standing idle, he asks that a record be kept of all unused equipment so that this can be drawn upon instead of buying new.

The idea of practicing the same kind of economy that would be adopted in running a private business, seldom prevails in the government service. During the war, according to reliable reports, some of the temporary bureaus bought so much unneeded furniture that they had to pile it up in vacant offices. They were paying rent on the office rooms at the exhorbitant rates incident to war scarcity, and then using some of those rooms to store unneeded and unused furniture purchased at excessive prices at a time when all the energies of the nation were needed for actual war production. That same lack of judgment was continued when the time came to dispose of the property acquired for war emergency purposes.

All this waste was continued in open defiance of the well laid plan of John W. Weeks, then senator from Massachusetts and now secretary of war. Senator Weeks proposed the creation of a commission on reconstruction. He proposed it in a resolution introduced many months before the armistice was signed. He knew, as every thinking man must have known, that sooner or later the war would end, and, like a good business man, he proposed to plan for the work that must be done after the war. His resolution provided for a commission equally divided between the two political parties so that politics could not enter into its work. The resolution particularly specified every subject matter that could come up as an aftermath of the war, and one of these subjects was the disposal of surplus stocks of property for war purposes.

If the Democrats had not defeated the Weeks resolution, there would have been a carefully-worked-out plan under which there would have been an orderly, economical and satisfactory sale of unneeded property and a conservation of property for which the government might have future use.

At a time when it is popular to aim wholesale criticism at congress, it is worth while to note that this reconstruction plan was the idea of a member of congress and not of the executive departments.

SOUNDS LIKE OLD TIMES.

Governor Harding of the federal reserve board has returned from a trip through the states of the South and West and is enthusiastic over the optimistic attitude of the farmers of that section of the country. He says that apparently every acre of land cultivated in the past is being planted this year with a great variety of crops. "Everywhere" Mr. Harding declares, "I saw and heard of a great activity on the farms, and abundance of farm labor."

THE HUES OF HUGHES.

These are the hues of Hughes:

Blue—of the boundless realms of space.
These are the hues that tell the story:
The steadfast hues of brave Old Glory!

The open-door policy must prevail in the Far East.

America has so said—more than once; and America is saying so again.

True, the policy was virtually abandoned by President Wilson. He sanctioned the Lansing-Ishii agreement with Japan—an agreement which practically slammed shut the door in Uncle Sam's face. Too, he countenanced the Shantung clause in the Versailles treaty—a clause which gave Japan advantage over other nations, in the realm of Cathay.

But we've gone back to the old era in the United States.

We've resumed the old American policies.

Secretary Hughes means to retain the open-door policy in the Orient. There is no doubt about that. He speaks so unmistakably that none may misunderstand. He has set his foot down; and when he set it down—he set it so as to hold the door open in the Far East.

"There is nothing vague or equivocal about what he says," remarks the Providence Journal. And there isn't.

But three nations have protested against Secretary Hughes' utterance: Britain, Denmark and Japan.

Why?

Well, Japan desires to exploit the Orient; Britain objects to having her monopolistic wireless business upset in China; and Denmark simply echoes what the other two have to say.

But will Secretary Hughes give heed to these protests?

Not at all.

The Chinese minister to the United States inquired of Mr. Hughes whether the United States would withdraw its support of the American Federal Telegraph company, which is doing business in China; and Mr. Hughes firmly replied:

"The government of the United States has never associated itself with any arrangement which sought to establish any special rights or privileges in China, which would abridge the rights of the subjects or citizens of other friendly states, and I am happy to assure you that it is the purpose of this government neither to participate nor to acquiesce in any arrangement which might purport to establish in favor of foreign interests any superiority of rights with respect to commercial or economical development in designated regions of the territories of China, or which might seek to create any such monopoly or preference as would exclude other nationals from undertaking any legitimate trade or industry or from participating with the Chinese governmetn in any category of public enterprise."

Nothing shifty or uncertain about that declaration of policy—eh?

Hughes is an American!

WILLIAM MURPHY AND WILLIAM SMART NABBED

Fall into Trap Set for Them by Police.

"SELL" STOLEN AUTO TO F. W. WILHELM

Harry Knight and C. M. "Hod" Walters Are Also in Bad in Tire Theft.

The local police with the assistance of F. W. Wilhelm, of Girard avenue, caused the arrest Saturday night of William Smart and William Murphy, while they were endeavoring to sell Wilhelm a Ford machine which proved to be the property of Lester Walterhouse, who lives in rural route No. 3, Marion, and which had been stolen from east Church street about an hour before the arrest was made.

One week ago Saturday night, William Smart, Harry Knight and C. M. "Tod" Walters are alleged to have sold Wilhelm eleven automobile tires for $50. Wilhelm at once reported the matter to the police, suspecting they had been stolen and that the men were trying to use him as a "fence." They agreed to sell him a Ford machine and were to take it to his shop on Girard avenue Saturday evening at 9 o'clock.

Fell into Trap.

The police had been informed of the proposed deal and Chief J. W. Thompson with Captain Edward Masterson and Officer Wren went to the shop. They were secreted in a back room where, through holes bored in the partition, they could witness the transaction. It was 9:45 o'clock when Smart and Murphy entered the shop and "sold" the machine to Wilhelm for $100.

Wilhelm counted out the money in two piles, asking the men if it was a "fifty-fifty" deal. They replied that it was and after he had laid down one package of $50 in bills, he delayed in counting out the other until the officers could get around. The bills had all been marked and he just finished counting the amount when the police stepped in and placed the fellows under arrest. About an hour later the owner of the machine reported his loss.

Others "In Bad."

Sunday night Walters was arrested in connection with the tire deal and charges were also filed against Harry Knight. On information received by the police from a brother of Smart, one tire was found on the Cusic road, south of the city, and three more in a field about three miles northwest of Green Camp this morning.

Affidavits against Smart, Walters and Knight were filed by W. L. Brown, an officer of the Erie, charging them with receiving and concealing eleven automobile tires of the value of $60. Smart waived examination and was held to the grand jury under a bond of $1,000. Walters confessed to having hauled the tires, but said he did not know they had been stolen. He pleaded not guilty and will have a hearing this afternoon.

Murphy was arraigned on an affidavit charging him with stealing a Ford machine of the value of $350, the affidavit being sworn to by Lester Walterhouse. He pleaded not guilty and his hearing was set for 3 o'clock this afternoon.

SIXTY EMPLOYES OF ERIE LAID OFF BY COMPANY

Refuse To Work Sunday Without Time and Half.

In the neighborhood of sixty employes of the Erie roundhouse and shop men and a few car inspectors have been suspended by the company pending an investigation. The action is the result of the refusal of the men to go to work Sunday, because they did not receive time and a half.

The Sunday force is not so large as week days, and works on three shifts of eight hours each. When the force reported for work at 11 o'clock Saturday night, it was apprised of the fact that it would not be paid time and a half. Consequently a number refused to go to work. Similar action was taken by men on the second and third shifts which reported for duty at 7 o'clock in the morning and 3 o'clock in the afternoon, respectively.

Sunday night when the men on the first shift reported, those who refused to go to work Saturday night were notified of their suspension. Like action was taken with the men on the second shift and the same will be taken with those on the third shift who refused to work, Sunday, when they report at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The officials state that no hardship is being suffered by the company and no serious results are anticipated.

MARION DAILY STARS BADLY BEATEN SUNDAY

Locals Can't Be Expected To Win 'Em All.

LAST SUNDAY AND LAST DAY IN JULY UNLUCKY

That's All There Is to It Save Score of Fourteen to Two.

(BY F. L. KRANER.)

The worst defeat ever suffered by the Marion Daily Stars was administered to them by the Columbus Mendels, Sunday, who sent the locals down by a score of fourteen to two. One consolation for the locals is that the Cleveland world champions suffered about the same kind of a defeat at the hands of New York.

The locals have long felt they were due for a real drubbing, but it was not expected Sunday. Well it came and came quick and mainly because the visitors nearly all batted like they were leading sluggers of the big show, while at the same time the Daily Stars were ridding themselves of some loose work that was bound to come out sooner or later.

The Columbus team was credited with eighteen hits, but many were of the fluke variety, some being knocked down on the infield, while some were of the Texas league variety, just over the infield. With these eighteen hits the locals contributed six misplays to aid the visitors, and the locals looked very much like they have made some other clubs look.

In Opening Round.

The Mendels started their bombardment on Jackman in the opening round by scoring two runs on two infield hits one good hit and a sacrifice and stolen base. A pair of errors and a hit donated them one in the second. Five hits including a double and a triple, produced four in the third. After two singles, a double and a triple were rang up in the fourth, Geller relieved Jackman. He checked the visitors and they were able to do but little with him, but they had a start of eleven runs.

The way Compton was pitching for the visitors, there was little fear on their part of the Daily Stars doing much. The locals saved themselves from a shut-out in the fourth by annexing two runs. These were the result of the one error of the visitors, a pass and Fetter's hit over first base which went for three bases. While the locals made nine hits off Compton, he kept them well scattered. The game was witnessed by the largest crowd of the season being featured by the all-around playing of the visitors.

VEIOCK ON SPORTS

New York, August 1.—Two more months and the major league pennant races will be over, but one would never guess it by the looks of the percentage columns.

As the teams swung into their August schedules, today, races in both leagues were tighter than Pullman windows, with no immediate prospects of a change.

The Indians and Yankees are in the midst of another hot series, fighting tooth and nail for the leadership with little to choose between them.

Tris Speaker's team has a shade in one respect and it lies in consistency and sustained winning. The Yanks, on the other hand, have suffered several depressing periods and strangest of all, they have been upset by some of the weaker teams of their league.

In the National league, the Pirates and Giants are very close together.

Aside from the two leading teams in the big league races, the Boston Braves are the only ones who will have the earmarks of dark horse pennant contenders, barring some freakish and long-sustained winning streak by a club that is not in the running in either league at this time.

One feature brought out boldly during the last ten days in both leagues is the fact that a lead of three or four games is not sufficient to guarantee any healthy occupancy of first place to any one of the four pennant making teams. There must be something strong with which to contend and as total attendance figures for the season may indicate. But there is [illegible] with the pennant [illegible].

The Senators swept their sixth straight from the Tigers, batting [illegible]

POLLAK-POWER OUTFIT GETS TRIMMED SATURDAY

Commercial Steel Team Winning, Sixteen to Five.

The Commercial Steel team, of the Industrial league, swamped the Pollak-Power team Saturday afternoon, by a score of sixteen to five. The defeated team played loose ball in several innings when the Commercials took advantage and bunched hits with errors and passes.

The Pollak-Power team did all its scoring in the first innings and had a nice lead to work on but neither of the pitchers could check the hitting of the Commercials. Gassaway succeeded McEldowney in the box for the Commercial team in the third innings and held the Pollaks to three scattered hits in the seven innings and kept these scattered so that they were wasted.

WITH THE PUGS

In Capital City.

Columbus, August 1.—Upon his arrival here, today, from Cleveland, Bryan Downey, new champion middleweight boxer, will be accorded two receptions by his legion of local admirers.

A band headed the throng that greeted him at the union station shortly before noon. The other reception will take place at the Fairmont arena tonight, after the scheduled bout between Jack Perry, Columbus and Johnny Kerr, Cleveland.

All the Cleveland fighters who are managed by Jimmy Dunn are expected to witness the Perry-Kerr fight.

Accompanied by Mrs. Downey and Manager Dunn, Downey expects to leave, tonight for New York, where he will appear before the New York boxing commission for the purpose of proving his claim to the middleweight championship. He will submit an affidavit, signed by the Cleveland boxing commission.

Training for Bout.

Philadelphia, August 1.—Benny Leonard will arrive here this week to finish training for his championship bout with Lew Tendler in the Phillies' ball park, August 12. Tendler is working out at Delanco, New Jersey, where he has been in camp more than a week.

BASEBALL GOSSIP.

Tagging the Bases.

The batterin' Babe has registered his thirty-eighth home run of the season. His thirty-eighth helped the Yanks trim the Indians.

In spite of a thunderstorm, more than 25,000 fans visited the Polo grounds.

The Reds toppled the Giants for two counts. Ruether pitching in the pinches won the first game and though Neal allowed but five hits in the second the defense behind Donohue was too strong for the Giants to break through.

Wheat and Reuther hit home runs, saving the Dodgers a shutout, but Pertica's pitching was too consistent and the Cards were victorious.

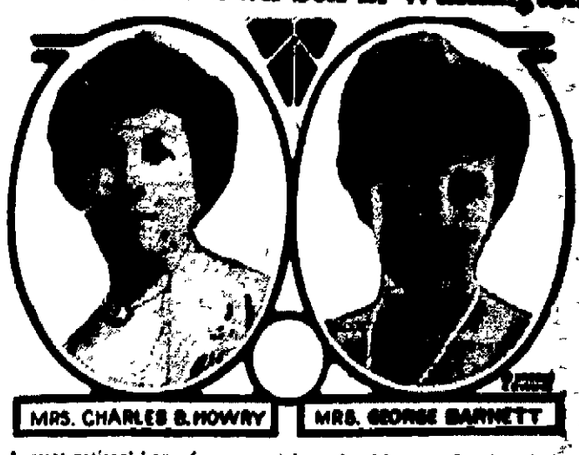
Women Striving for National Club For Their Own Sex in Washington



MRS. CHARLES B. HOWRY — MRS. GEORGE BARNETT

A great national home for women which will be at once a monument to their achievements, a source of inspiration for their endeavors and a clearing house of information on all their interests and activities—this is the objective of the Woman's National Foundation, which has been inaugurated in Washington, D C, by a group of social and civic leaders Mrs George Barnett, wife of Major General Barnett of the U S Marine Corps, who was known during the war as the "Mother of the Marines," is chairman of the executive committee of the Foundation, while Mrs Charles B Howry, of Washington, is its financial secretary.

Any white woman of good moral character can become a member of the Foundation, can have a stake in the national home and a share in its privileges by the payment of $10 a year, if non-resident of the District of Columbia The site has already been chosen and purchased in the exclusive Northwest section of the Capital. It consists of nine and a half acres of beautifully wooded land, surrounding a historic home. This home is already open for the use of members and their guests, and next fall courses of lectures on civics, diplomatic procedure and other subjects calculated to advance women's political education, will be begun under the direction of such leaders as Mrs Maud Wood Park. Those interested in the objective of the Foundation should communicate at once with Mrs C C. Calhoun, its president, Woman's National Foundation, Connecticut Ave., N. W., Washington, D. C.
